CHINESE LABOUR IN THE TRANSVAAL.

Mr Jamieson's annual roport as superntendent of Chinese labour in the Transvanl has been issued. He points to some of the difficulties of administration, and states that where the men in charge of compounds are corrupt the mine managers are helptess string unable to communicate with the labourers except through these men. In such circumstances a coolie would have no chance of presenting a grievance. The average number of labourers employed in the year which ended last June was 47,600, and there were 13,532 convictions for offences. As a whole, Mr Jamieson regards the Chinese as law-abiding. No attacks on women have ever been proved, but the coolie cannot be acquitted of deliberate murder of his fellow-country-AI. ABC 5th Edition, Western Union men, often in aggravated circumstances of cruelty. The great predisposing cause of all Chinese crime on the mines, Mr Jamisson says, is gambling, with its resultant debt, supplemented to a lesser degree by illicit traffic in opium. He expresses regret that the conduct of many white men in the Transvanl is lowering the Chinese opinion of the white man's integrity.

SWETTENHAMISMS."

A New York lady has been telling Americans what they are really to think of Sir Alexander Swettenham's recent alleged brusqueness in Jamaica. Her views are not very consoling to ourselves. It seems that, so far from Sir Alexander being an unfortunate type of the English character, he belongs to a nation wholly composed of Swettenhams. England, she THE HONGKONG ICE COMPANY declares, is full of Swettenhamisms perpetrated by people who have not the wit to see they are offending. Fresh from a visit to our shores, she confides to the New York "Sun" the dreadful story of British inentitudes.

the Undersigned, at King's Buildings, Victoria, in the Colony of Hongkong, on "They are constantly doing things that made me wince," she said. "For instance, in our set was a charming young woman from Virginia. She had grey hair, which never failed to excite the frankest discus

"One day, when someone complimented her on it, she laughingly replied : "'Oh, I don't like it. I'm going to turn it black as soon as I hear of a reliable

"'Don't, don't, I beg of you,' said the impressive voice of Lady B. 'Keep it as it is. Grey hair often gives refinement to a face that otherwise would possess none, 1024 and she settled herself back in her chair highly satisfied with herself, and entirely unconscious of the indignant looks exchanged between the Americans present.

"The same grey hair was the occasion of soveral remarks from the wife of a London surgeon. She saw no beauty in it, and said so frankly:

"'I'm shore you could dye it,' she urged 'My daughter-in-law had hers dyed, and it was a great success. She has that same coarse horse hair that you have, and it took the black most beautifully. And I'm shore it's a great improvement. She doesn't look a day more than thirty-five now, and neither would you if you had black hair.'.

"The woman addressed was barely twenty-seven.

"I know one Englishman who is stil wondering why a smile went round when he condescendingly informed me that I spoke English fairly well for a foreigner. The smile was not in the least explained to him later when he learned that I was an American. He only looked me up and down critically, and remarked:

" Would never have thought it. You don't look as objectionally American as some, you know.'

"So what's the use of being cross at them? Their completency is monumental and their point of view different. I doubt if all the denunciation of all the newspapers in these United States could persuade Governor Swet'n'm, as he's called in England, that he gave us any reason for feeling indignant. We ought to be thankful that he let us off so easy."

GENERAL FRENCH ON

BITLE CLUBS.

General Sir John French opening

miniature rifle range at Tongham, near Aldershot, on March 2, said that to those who regarded the duty of preserving this great empire in its integrity as a mos

sacred one it must be a great gratification

to see the success of the movement for the establishment of rifle clubs, which must be regarded as an important factor in fitting men for national defence. Mr Haldane's in close touch with the manhood and life of the nation was to be based on the principle that it was the bounden duty of young man to take part in his country's defence.

Mr. Haldane had such absolute belief in the loyalty, in the good faith, and in the patriotism of his fellow countrymen that he expressed himself content to abandon all idea of compulsion and rest his hopes and plans entirely upon voluntary effort.

Sir John French, therefore, appealed to others fighting for them. If an enemy landed on the coast everyone would have a burning desire to join the standard and repulse the invader. But how could they oppose trained soldiers without such preparation as was given by rifle clubs? They had a splendid example from their fellow countrymen in Natal, where a small army trouble. To provide rifle clubs and ranges and the like was a national duty, and it was a work in which every individual,

irrespective of party or sect, should join.

MAD SINGER'S FREAK;

Scene at the Kaiser's Concert.

An unprecedented scene was enacted

before the Kaiser and his Court last night,

Eugen Knupke, one of the chorus of the Royal Opera' House, suddenly going mad.

The occasion was a concert; which was given in the White Hall, the Kniser's guests including the diplomatic corps and kigh dignitaries in Court and official circles.

The programme was provided by the orchestra and chorus of the Royal Opera

House, the whole being under the direction of Dr. Strauss. During the interval the adjoining State rooms for refreshments.

Suddenly the roll of a drum was heard, beating the "assembly," and at the amexpected summons the audience hurried back to the White Hall to resume their

It was then found that Knupke, in a summons, which had taken every one; the Kaiser included, by surprise. He was forcibly restrained, but, breaking loose from the attendants, he attempted to make his way to the Emperor himself. Before he could accomplish his purpose the attendants again seized him, and forced him from the hall. The Kaiser asked Dr

Strauss for an explanation of the strange scene, and the latter informed his Majesty that the singer had suddenly lost his reason, and had been handed over to the police for conveyance to an asylum. The incident created much excitement amongst the guests, but the Kaiser femained cool and self-possessed.

"HYSTERICAL EMOTIONALISM."

SEVERAL of the great daily papers of London have, so Reuter informs us, element of the performance. The youthdenounced the commutation of the sentence upon the murderer of the lase are as good as ever. A frequent tram Mr Whiteley. Their objection to this clemency is that it is a concession to Mines in Manchuria, hysterical emotionalism and practically extenuation for crime. Until we recieve the detailed report of the proceedings in the criminal court we are of course in the dark as to the actual plea put forward by the counsel for Rayner. It would appear, however, to have been somewhat indefinite plea. Degeneracy may be explained as a "growing worse" or "loss of goodness"-these are both almost inconceivable that such a plea yet decided as there are several complicated | England the former P. and O. paddlecould have been seriously put forward or that it could affect the mind of a Life Insurance in Japan. jury so strongly that they should record. mend the criminal to mercy. deterioration of qualities is held to war. ANOTHER MURDER

Japanese Hacked to Death.

A serious fight, which culminated in the niurder of a Japanese seaman, occurred in a house in Connaught Road last night and unfortunately the perpetrators of the murder are still at large.

From what can be gathered by the police it appears that a male Japanese, to all appearances a seaman, entered the Yamamoto Khan-a Japanese hotel at No. 55. Connaught Road, Central-between the hours of eight and nine last night. He tooks. seat and ordered something to eat. While sitting there three other Japanese arrived? and the first-comer entered into conversation with them. They had a meal. together and afterwards had one or two drinks. Then a row broke out. What started it is not yet known, but within a few moments, according to thestory of the hotel keeper-a Japanese woman-the first-comer was set upon by the other three. He closed with them and a fierce fight began, in the midst of which the woman left the house calling for assistance. By the time she returned the room wasdescribed; no signs of the combatants could. be seen, but in the middle of the floor wasa pool of blood.

. The story is now continued by a China. man who lived next door. He was surprised: to hear some-one rush into the room and on turning to the intruder saw a Japanese, from whom blood was running, fall facedownwards on the floor-unconscious. Believing something serious had happened the Chinaman communicated with the police and when they arrived on the scene the Japanese was still unconscious. A cursory examination revealed the fact that the Japanese was suffering from several knife wounds about the body, and the police at once commenced to remove himto the hospital. Before that institutions was reached, however, the man expired. So far no trace of the assailants has been found, but from the story told by thewoman there appears to be every hope of CANTON, April 4. Both in Shiu Hing and in Fatshan' action has been taken by those who areresponsible for the welfare of the peoplein order to meet the pressing need of the hour. At Fatshan the officials and the gentry have met and discussed whether the need is not crying enough to warrant the opening of the official granaries, that the rice stored therein may be sold to the people at a rate that is within their reach. Of course in the olden days much rice was stored by the officials, when it wascheap, and sold out when there appeared

It appears that in Fatshan there is still some government, rice stored that may be available. The officials and the gentry havedecided that such a course is warranted Then in Shiu Hing, according to the report, the officials have decided to advance ten thousand tacks of government money with which to buy rice, which is to be sold out to those only who hold tickets. No larger quantity than fifty cente worth is to be sold to any one person at one time. Special restrictions have been laid down in regard to any attempt to make the rice heavier by the addition of water, which appears to be no uncommon practice among some shopkeepers; and those who at this crisis attempt anything of the kind and are discovered will be punished

There is at present a great distrust of Scottish working classes. Every now and then an ugly story gets abread as to the cauned and chilled food; each one of them doubt that people are more prepared than at any previous time to give their support quite apart from politics, -indeed, in spite given to the Colonies if for no other reason than that a more perfect system of food inspection could thereby be guaranteed. This may seem to be a strange statement General Election; but nevertheless it is an labsolutely true one "We voted for plenty food last time," said a democratic leader the order day, "next time we'll vote for good food."

An unsatisfactory state of affairs has been revealed as regards the American meat in a report by Mr A. M. Trotter, the voterinary surgeon for Glasgow. On two occasions lately he seized as unfit for human food forelegs of chilled beef from the stance of one of the agents of a large meat exporter in the United States. The Mr Thomas, " reveal that the inspection is 1905 the animals slaughtered were 37,482 on each working day, and the number of daily-an utter impossibilility.

TROIVIDUAL BUFFERERS BY THE RUSSO-JAPANESE WAR.

A petition has been presented in the Lower House of the Diet urging that steps should be taken by the Japanese, Government to ascertain the losses incurred by Japanese private individuala in consequence of the war and to recoup them reports the Japan Daily Mail. The petitioners go into great detail. They charge, among other things, that many Japanese subjects would have withdrawn from Russian territory at a much earlier date and therefore would have been able to carry off more of their property, had they not been assured by Japanese officials up to the last moment that peace would be preserved. This petition was originally presented in the previous session of the Diet, and was duly adopted for presentation to the Government. It was then couched in All broken, chafed, and damaged Goods language which claimed the payment of compensation as a right. But its tone has now been altered, and it merely asks that compassion should be shown towards the

THE NAVY AND THE FAR EAST

- In the course of the debate on the Navy Estimate in the House of Commons on March 7 Bir G. Parker pointed out that we had withdrawn our ships from China waters; but despite the action of Japan, under the the Alliance, in providing for our common interests in that part of the Cargo by her are hereby informed that world, if war broke out in the East tomorrow we should have to detach from the Fleets in nearer waters ships to send ou Limited, at Howloon, where each consign. there. We were supposed to have in these ment will be sorted out mark by mark, Fleets at the present time a sufficient de fence for these shores; but what a dangerous position of affairs it would be i we had to weaken them in order to All Damaged Packages must be left in despatch vessels to the East. It might be said that these were idle fears, as the relations between England and other nations were now most amiable. But he not think an era of peace was upon us. No one who took observation of the present condition of Europe could think so. Although Japan had now the preponderance of power he did not think the condition of things as between Japan and Russia had materially changed. There had been trouble the other day between Japan and the United States; there was France and Germany and the possible Consignees of Cargo are hereby informed break-up of Austria, and so long as there that their Goods are being landed and placed was danger in Europe it was not possible at their risk in the Hongkong & Kowloon for this country to abandon at least the preponderance of the two-Power standard

A PAIN-STRICKEN POSTMAN.

IN SINGAPORE COMPLETELY CURED DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

RECUMATISM AND LUMBAGO WERE HIS Troubles.

THE case of Awang bin Hussin of the Singapore Postal Service—completely cured of Rheumatism and Lumbago by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People after years of almost continuous sufferingproves that, no matter what occupation a man follows, if he has Rhenmatism or any of its kindred ailments he may still hope for permanent and perfect cure.

"It was about five years ago that I became afflicted with Rhoumatism," Awang bin Hussin. "The pains began in my fingers and then spread up my arms to the elbows and shoulders. After that my feet and legs were attacked and the pains also appeared in my loins and back. think the pain in my loins was Lumbago. My legs as far as the knees became swellen.
